If You Give

a Dog a Donut

If you give a dog a donut,

he'll ask for some apple juice to go with it.

When you give him the juice, he'll drink it all up.

Then he'll ask for more.

There won't be any left, so he'll want to make his own.

He'll go outside to pick apples.

When he's up in the tree, he'll toss you one.
Throwing the apple will make him think of baseball.

He'll want to play.

You'll have to get a ball

and a glove.

Of course, he'll also need a bat.

He'll ask you to pitch.

He'll hit a home run!

Then he'll do a happy dance to celebrate.

Dancing will make him hot and dusty,
so he'll need some water.

He'll probably start a water fight.

You'll have to dry him off with your bandanna.

He'll wrap it around his head and pretend that he's a pirate.

Then he'll want to go on a treasure hunt.

He'll find an old kite and want to make one himself.

You'll have to get him some sticks, paper, and string.

When the kite is finished,

he'll want to fly it.
It will go higher and higher,

until it gets tangled in the apple tree.

The tree will remind
so he'll probably
ask you for some.

And chances are,

if he asks for some apple juice,

he'll want a donut to go with it.
